As a school counselor working with middle school students, I am alarmed when I hear that many students live in homes where they have easy access to firearms. It is especially concerning when students are in crisis and have active ideation around suicide. The VT Safe Gun Storage Bill just makes sense.

Are there any rational reasons not to implement this law?
	Richmond	VT	05477	Feb 10, 2013	Chittenden

Ian Stokes

Gun owners should either have a gun safe that only the parents know the combination to or else have trigger locks on all the guns in the house not stored in the safe.

I'd also like to see legislation to ban assault weapons in the state of Vermont. Maybe if enough legislators got behind this effort they could stand up to the highly funded efforts that are against gun control. I think we can let our legislators know that we support them and will reelect them despite what the opposition says. This IS Vermont after all!

Agreed! We have lost too many children to gun violence. As a parent of a Virginia Tech student at the time of the April 16th shooting, I am shocked that did not stir our hearts to action. I am also the aunt of a pregnant niece who both she and her husband work in the Newtown -Sandy Hook school district this past December. Our family can truly say. "There before the grace of God goes I" We were blessed they all remained unharmed physically but damaged in spirit that our country is more worried about the hunters than the hunted" They too have 2nd amendment rights and when that was written we lived in a world where there were no police and militias could be formed to protect themselves. That was a whole other world and time. If you need an AK 15 to kill Bambi, you're not a hunter!

I would say that this is the least that Vermont can do to help protect its children and those of us who do not and will not own guns. We have rights too.

My mother was murdered in 1969. She was shot 4 times in our home. The murderer was never identified. With better gun registration, he may have been.

In my professional opinion, access to weapons is a major factor in impulsive violent behavior. Research shows impulse control in the brain is incomplete before age 25.
